

EDISON DECLARES HE IS FOR WILSON (Continued from Page 1)

can't get 100 per cent efficiency in a democracy.

"In my opinion Mr. Hughes, if President, would find it difficult to decide on the best course for the Government to take in this strike. (The threatened railroad strike.) His capacity for hindsight, as we learn from his speeches, is highly developed.

Roosevelt was my choice. He had experience and is one of the best of Americans, but the machine controlled Republican party would not have him, so I am for Woodrow Wilson."

DISTANT PARTS YIELD ELEMENTS

Ingredients of Tanlac Are Gathered From All Over The World.

From the most remote sections of the world—civilized and uncivilized—come the elements or medical properties, that compose Tanlac, the Master Medicine, now sold in Lexington, and which has proved such a boon to countless thousands in many sections of the United States.

The Alps, Appenines, Pyrenees, contribute their infinitesimal part; Russian Asia, Europe, Jamaica, Brazil and the West Indies are scoured for some of the roots, barks and herbs used in the preparation. The mountain states near the Rockies, Asia Minor, Persia, India, Mexico, Columbia and Peru send some of the ingredients that have proved of such vast benefit.

These medicinal roots, barks and herbs are shipped to the Tanlac laboratories, Dayton, Ohio, where they are compounded with the most scrupulous care.

Under the efficient direction of Joseph von Trimbach, a native German chemist of renown, these ingredients are mixed and blended until they have the high state of perfection shown in the uniform preparation, Tanlac.

In sterilized bottles, made especially for the purpose, Tanlac is placed, labeled and cartoned and then sent to various parts of the world, where the demand requires, some of the medicine going to countries from which the ingredients came.

Tanlac is destined to become as popular in Lexington as it has in other cities of this state, where it has been introduced.

Tanlac is sold exclusively in Lexington at Crenshaw & Young's drug store.

TELLS HOW TO MAKE GOOD LIGHT BREAD

University Circular Names Materials to be Used and Steps to be Followed.

Good light bread is good because it is made that way. "Luck" never made many loaves of good bread, says a circular, "Making Light Bread," issued by the agricultural extension service of the University of Missouri. There is no "best" way to make bread, according to Miss Addie D. Root, who wrote the circular, but there are few general points which are necessary to be known, whatever method is used.

First, a careful selection of the ingredients is necessary. Wheat flour is best for bread making because it contains a large amount of gluten, the substance which enables the loaf to keep its shape and retain its lightness. The form of yeast used is not important, but it should always be fresh and in the best of condition. For the necessary liquid, water, milk, half water and half milk, potato water, or whey may be used. Salt up to a teaspoonful to a loaf should be added; above this amount it will hinder the growth of the yeast and make bread small, heavy, and less tender. Butter, lard, or a combination of both in the proportion of one tablespoonful to a one-pound loaf may be used to improve taste. A tablespoonful of sugar to each loaf will also improve the taste.

A good combination of these ingredients is the following: 1 cup of liquid; 1 tablespoonful of fat; 1 tablespoonful of sugar; 1 teaspoonful of salt; 1/4 dry yeast cake, or 1/4 cake of compressed yeast, or 1/4 cup of liquid yeast; and 3 to 4 cups of flour. Either the long process, where a sponge is made before the dough, or the short process in which all the flour is added at the time of mixing the dough, may be used with this recipe.

In mixing, the flour should be added gradually and beat in thoroughly. The dough should be well kneaded from fifteen to thirty minutes before the bread is put to rise the first time. It is best not to knead much when forming loaves for baking. While rising, the temperature of the dough should be kept at an even, gentle warmth of 77 to 95 F. It should be tightly covered to prevent the formation of crust.

The bread should first be put into an oven that is not hot enough to form a crust, and allowed to rise a little while baking. The temperature should be 356 F. when the bread is first put in, increasing it after the first ten minutes to 428 F. a heat that will brown white paper in five minutes. Forty-five minutes to an hour is sufficient for baking.

After baking, bread should be aired for a short while to allow the steam to escape before wrapped or put into a bread box.

Stop The First Cold.

A cold does not get well of itself. The process of wearing out a cold wears you out, and your cough becomes serious if neglected. Hacking coughs drain the energy and sap the vitality. For 47 years the happy combination of soothing, antiseptic balsams in Dr. King's New Discovery has healed coughs and relieved congestion. Young and old can testify to the effectiveness of Dr. King's New Discovery for coughs and colds. Buy a bottle to-day at your Druggist, 50c.

Don't Neglect Your Cold.

Neglected colds get worse, instead of better. A stuffed head, a tight chest must be relieved at once. Dr. Bell's Pine-Tar-Honey is nature's remedy. Honey and glycerine heal the irritated membrane, antiseptic tar loosens the phlegm, you breathe easier and your cold is broken up. Pleasant to take, Dr. Bell's Pine-Tar-Honey is an ideal remedy for children as well as grown-ups. At your Druggist, 25c.

Clear Bad Skin From Within.

Easy to apply; it penetrates without rubbing and soothes the tender flesh. Cleaner and more effective than musky ointments or poultices. For strains or sprains, sore muscles or wrenched ligaments resulting from strenuous exercise, Sloan's Liniment gives quick relief. Keep it on hand for emergencies. At your Druggist, 25c.
